Dear WIPLA Members,

What is your mindset? Does your mindset hold you back? Does your mindset influence how you interact with your colleagues? On May 7th WIPLA held a lively discussion of Professor Carol Dweck's book Mindset discussing the effect our mindset has on our motivation, learning and personal growth. The event was graciously hosted by Foley & Lardner LLP and featured members from the WIPLA Mentoring Committee; Rhett Currier, Managing Director of Atlas Financial Partners, Beth Roemer, a career coach and consultant for Stanford Law School, and Kate Wheble, a partner at Haring & Smith.

WIPLA is committed to engaging with female attorneys of all levels and across all practice areas through networking opportunities, mentorship programs and social events.

WIPLA consists of an array of female attorneys ranging from start up lawyers to partners at national firms. And we are always looking for new members! WIPLA's aim is to support and empower women intellectual property practitioners and address the challenges they face by providing a forum for interaction, communication and support among fellow women intellectual property lawyers. If you are not already a member, we hope you will join our organization. For more information on membership and upcoming events, please visit: <http://www.wipla.net>.

Hope to see you at

WIPLA event soon!
